

Michelle McNair, Pharm.D.

Dr. Michelle is a pharmacist by trade, but a teacher by heart. She received her Bachelor of Science in Chemistry with a minor in Education from Tennessee State University. Dr. Michelle continued her education and received her Doctor of Pharmacy from Howard University.

She started her pharmacy career in 2005 by completing an Ambulatory Care Pharmacy Fellowship with focus on Diabetes and Neurology. Her primary goal was to help minorities become advocates of their own health and help close the gap in healthcare disparities. She has stayed true to this goal by focusing her work on various managed care programs that serve populations that have the least access to healthcare programs. In her current position she provides direction and leadership to over 35 health plans to assist with improved health outcomes of the Medicare Population. Along the way, Dr. Michelle has honed and sharpened her communication, problem solving, team development and research skills.

In addition to helping patients, Dr. Michelle works to equip others with the tools they need to reach their goals and dreams. She has done this by developing mentorship programs and leading by example.

Dr. Michelle DMV roots are strong and she is most definitely a daddy's girl. Dr. Michelle has a zest for living a full life. She is a Star Wars enthusiast and a dedicated member of the Delta Sigma Theta sorority. Dr. Michelle is married to her supportive husband, Michael of four years and the mother of a fur baby, Mochi.
